WILL EXTEND RED CROSS DRIVE THREE MORE DAYS

In order to complete the drive for twenty-five hundred members in the southern half of Wood County, Red Cross officials announced Tuesday to the workers that the drive would be continued three more days. Carriers of this territory have not been solicited for membership as yet and it will require more than the allotted time to finish the campaign. The closing date which has been set is November 14th.

A meeting of the officials of the drive held Tuesday revealed the fact that there were about eleven hundred memberships included up until that time. Two wards in this city had not been covered. The Nokosau-Edwards mills had not been reported in and the village of Nokosau had not made their report. Volunteer workers from the Wood County Normal will assist in taking care of the remainder of the city drive while the Nokosau-Edwards mill and the village of Nokosau are being worked by the people of those communities.

Present indications are that the membership when completely turned in will run close to two thousand members, probably falling short by a few hundred of the mark which was set as the goal. The people of the city responded very well, the workers state, but in many cases where formerly entire families belonged to the Red Cross only one or two joined this year. The interest shown by the both the people carrying on the campaign and the people solicited indicates that there will be no trouble in retaining the organization as a peace time body.

CONVICT NEKOOSA GUARD FOR POINTING REVOLVER

Charles Ford, head guard at the Nokosau-Edwards plant, was found guilty pointing a revolver at Charles Champlay on September 18th, during the strike troubles which occurred at Nokosau during that month. A jury composed of Robt. Rowland, A. W. Lamborn, Andrew Schull, A. B. Sutor, Eugene Miller and Edw. Smith listened to the case and after a few minutes deliberation brought in a verdict of guilty.

The case grew out of an argument between Ford and members of the Union at Nokosau. It seemed from the testimony that Ford, in company with some mill workers, went by the pickets at Nokosau, who shouted "seab" at them. Ford, they stated, ran by the place where the incident occurred a distance of fifty or sixty feet, stopped the car and came back to where the men were congregated. They stated that he warned them that they had better stop the shouting at him or there would be trouble. In an argument that followed between Ford and Champlay, Ford struck Champlay in the face, throwing it at Ford. It is then alleged, pulled a gun from his pocket and threatened the crowd of strikers who he stated had seized clubs and chairs and started for him. Officer Hart arrested Ford, the case having been postponed until Monday of this week.

Judge Pomainville, before whom the case was tried, made it $1 and costs, amounting to $39.51, which Ford agreed to pay.

FOUR SALE—4 eighty acre pieces of ideal farm or dairy land, easy to clear; can all be rented to pay interest on investment, from $1,000 to $2,000 each; a 20 acre river view farm, all clear, $1500. MARIE GROSKOPF MARRIED RACINE MAN ON SATURDAY

Miss Marie Groskopf of this city and Mr. Raymond Kreuser, formerly of Racine but who now resides at Racine, were married last Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, at St. Peter & Paul church, Rev. Wm. Reding officiating.

They were attended by Miss Frances Groskopf, as bridesmaid, while Evelyn Kreuser was the groomsmen. The bride made a very attractive appearance in a plum colored velvet dress with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. The bridesmaid was very prettily gowned in Albee blue silk with hat to match carrying a bouquet of Ophelia roses. After the ceremony the bridal party were guests at the home of the bride's parents on Wisconsin street, where a delightful wedding breakfast was served to the young couple and a number of their friends. The home had been beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and other cut flowers and ferns, making it very attractive. Mr. and Mrs. Kreuser left shortly after the breakfast for Milwaukee, Chicago and Racine on a wedding tour where they will spend about a week, returning to this city to make their home.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Groskopf of this city and is very well and favorably known here. She has been employed in different business places about the city in recent years and has made a host of friends among the young people of Grand Rapids. The groom is a former resident of Racine, having come to this locality about a year and a half ago, being employed at the Bron mill. During his life here Mr. Kreuser has made many friends and proved himself to be an able and industrious young man. The newlyweds will make their home at 743 Wisconsin street upon their return to this city, and will be at home to their friends there after November 15th. They have the best wishes of the Tribune and a host of other friends in this city.

The new office is a continuance of this movement which was carried on during the war by Miss Carroll, who resigned last spring to take up work at the University. The demonstration not only helps the farmers wives in lightening their household, but expends and demonstrates how much can be made over advantageously, how the cooking can be made more attractive and what foods are the most nutritious, and numerous other things that only scientific training can otherwise be conveyed to an individual.

The university, it is stated by the women here, are so enthusiastic about the new movement that they are offering to pay one-half of the expense of the office for the first year in the first few counties who employ a demonstrator. They describe the success of a demonstrator in Marathon county, who organized more than twenty farmers wives clubs in that county during her first year's work and who the county board unanimously voted to retain.

Winning Players at Daly's 4 big days, commencing Friday, Nov. 14. Prices 25, 35 and 50c.

WOMEN WILL URGED TO HAVE CO. DEMONSTRATOR

The Federated Womens Clubs of this city, working in conjunction with the requests of many women throughout the different communities in Wood County, will explain the proposition of the County Food Demonstrator to the members of the County Board at their annual Fall meeting this year. Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, who has headed the Woman's Land Army in Wisconsin, will probably be here from Madison to address the members of the board on the matter and urge establishing such an office in this county.

HEAVY EXPRESS PACKAGES MUST TRAVEL IN BOXES

W. S. Fishbach, local express agent, has received a communication from headquarters stating that all shipments of express weighing more than twenty-five pounds must hereafter be packed in wooden containers or cartons of fibre-board, pulp board or corrugated strawboard material. The new law goes into effect December 10th and after that date the local express company can accept no packages of more than twenty-five pounds weight that do not comply with the new regulations.

The new express regulations follow very closely the freight shipping regulations, Mr. Fishbach states, and will be a benefit to the shippers as well as the company. During the past few years the express shipments have become so heavy that it has been necessary to pack express cartons completely full of packages of express. Stacked in this way shipments not properly properly protected with a box of some kind are often ruined, or in many cases badly battered.

As wooden containers have become comparatively scarce and equally expensive, the new express law will probably be a material aid to the Aldwagm Paper Products Company of this city, manufacturers of paper shipping cartons.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Kellogg entertained about thirty of their friends at a dinner party Monday evening. Following the dinner the evening was spent playing bridge, Mrs. Bruzau and D. R. Mond winning the favors while Mrs. Guy O. Babcock and Rogers Mott were given the consolation favors.

NEAL COFFEY MARRIED TO LUCY HACKBARTH TUESDAY

Miss Lucy Hackbarth of Sigel and Mr. Neal Coffey of this city were married last Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the parsonage of the Catholic Church at Vesper, Rev. Gille of that village performing the ceremony. Miss Jessie Hackbarth was the bridesmaid while Elmer Hackbarth was the groomsmen. Following the wedding there was a dinner served at the bride's home where the wedding party enjoyed a delightful repast. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hackbarth, well known residents of the town of Sigel. She has made her home in that town for many years and enjoys large acquaintance both in Sigel and in this city. She is a most estimable young lady. The groom is the son of Mrs. M. Coffey, residing west of this city a short distance. He has made his home here for the greater part of his life, having been employed in the tinshop of the Nash Hardware Co. for many years. Later Neal served his country during the war, returning from overseas service this summer. The young people will make their future home in this city. Neal having opened a tinshop in the rooms above the Nash Hardware store. The Tribune wishes to extend its many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them every happiness.

Walter L. Benedict, of Marshfield, appeared before Judge W. J. Conway last Saturday where he was given a hearing regarding his sanity, the Judge committing him to the Northern Hospital for the insane at Winnebago. Mr. Benedict is a man seventy-two years of age.

PROMINENT IMPERSONATOR FIRST ON LECTURE COURSE

John B. Ratto, well known impersonator, will appear here Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, on the Community Entertainment Course. The program of Mr. Ratto comprises impersonations in make-up of many different characters. The program is so well connected that one character after another follows in logical order.

A feature of the program this year is Mr. Ratto's impersonation of Marshall Foch. In the course of his impersonation he also impersonates Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Roosevelt, Pershing, Washington and Lincoln.

Mr. Ratto is a psychologist and his programs are always presented with due regard to the requirements of the times. While most of his program is of a humorous nature, here and there he slips in a touch of the dark side of life that never fails to score heavily and bring handkerchiefs to the eyes of many. He has swayed many an audience from laughter to tears.

Mr. Ratto comes to Grand Rapids from Elgin, Ill., where he appears in the largest course in the United States. Elgin appears several thousand dollars each year in its entertainment course and seats are always at a premium. Every number that appears on the Grand Rapids course this year, has or will be on the Elgin course.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ralston entertained about twenty-five of their friends at a dinner party Saturday evening. Bridge followed the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rogers and Mrs. Bruzau and Mr. Boles winning the favors.

MILLADORE COUPLE WERE MARRIED ON WEDNESDAY

Miss Agnes Haumschield and Mr. Frank Koefan, both well known young people of Milladore, were united in marriage at St. James church at Milladore Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Waldeck performing the ceremony.

The bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude Haumschield while Louis Koefan was the best man. Dressed in a gown of white silk embroidered net over satin and wearing a wreath and veil, the bride made a very delightful appearance. She carried a large bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaid was likewise very attractive in a gown of pale pink cotton with gold net lace. The bridesmaid carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. Following the ceremony the immediate relatives who served a sumptuous wedding dinner at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is one of the prettiest young ladies of Milladore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haumschield of that village. She has been assistant in the postoffice for some time past, where her courteous treatment of the patrons won many new friends for her. The groom is a Milladore young man, reared in that community and a very favorably known young man. At the present time, however, he is employed with a large mercantile company at Superior, where he holds a responsible position.

Following a wedding tour the young couple will make their home in Superior where they settle down to their new life with the best wishes of the Tribune and their many friends throughout the county.

GUNSHOT WOUND FATAL TO YOUNG RIB LAKE FARMER

The Marshfield Herald tells the following account of an accident which occurred at Rib Lake: "Norman Doche, aged 23, a farmer boy residing eight miles southeast of Rib Lake, suffering from an accidental gunshot wound, died Tuesday night on a Soo line passenger while enroute to St. Joseph's Hospital, this city. The accident occurred Tuesday noon. He was at work in the woods with his brother Fred. When the noon hour arrived they started for home. Herman in advance carrying a 30 calibre automatic rifle, which he had taken to the woods with him that morning. In climbing over a pile of logs he slipped and fell and the gun was discharged. The bullet passed through the thigh of the right leg and downward into the calf of the leg making an ugly wound. His brother Fred tried to carry him out of the woods but had to give up and go for assistance. He was hurried to this city on the first train but the shock and loss of blood caused the ending of his life shortly after the train left Spooner.

John Jozewski, a resident of Stockton, Portage county, died last Tuesday twenty minutes after being hit with a mail sack thrown from a Soo line limited. Mr. Jozewski was walking along the track when the accident occurred. The train, a limited, was traveling at a high rate of speed when the sack was thrown from a mail car, striking the man in the chest. Internal injuries resulted causing his death.

We consider that the move on the part of the Chamber of Commerce to fix up the old fair grounds near the Lincoln school for an athletic field is one of the best propositions that has been brought up for many a day. While anybody who wants to attend a football game or a baseball game or any other athletic entertainment should have honor enough to pay their way, whether they are kept out by a fence or not, it is undoubtedly a fact that they will not all do it, and it is for the purpose of catching these dead beats that a proper enclosure should be built. The present ball park is too far from the city to entice the person who has to walk, and everybody does not have an automobile at his disposal nor does he always care to pay street car fare in addition to the regular admission in order to see a game. It may be that they should be willing to pay this additional cost, but it appears from past experience that they are not willing to do so. A proper enclosure would enable the high school pupils to charge for any events that they care to pull off, and if a little money were spent in putting the ground into shape it would be a good thing in many ways.

Coincident with the meeting of the industrial conference called by President Wilson, former Senator Bourne's "Republican publicity bureau" begins to attack organized labor. Is this Republican auxiliary attempting to discredit the conference as it has endeavored to belittle the League of Nations?

Senator Sherman learned through "gossip" in the cloak rooms that the gifts received by President Wilson in Europe were worth "a half million of dollars." Mr. Sherman apparently depends on "the gossip of the cloak rooms" for much of the substance of his speeches in the Senate.

Twenty weeks of the special session of Congress under Republican auspices have been twenty weeks of empty and expensive chattering. The G. O. P. has given point to that old legislative formula, "met pursuant to adjournment."

We consider that the move on the part of the Chamber of Commerce to fix up the old fair grounds near the Lincoln school for an athletic field is one of the best propositions that has been brought up for many a day. While anybody who wants to attend a football game or a baseball game or any other athletic entertainment should have honor enough to pay their way, whether they are kept out by a fence or not, it is undoubtedly a fact that they will not do it, and it is for the purpose of catching these dead beats that a proper enclosure should be built. The present ball park is too far from the city to entice the person who has to walk, and everybody does not have an automobile at his disposal nor does he always care to pay street car fare in addition to the regular admission in order to see a game. It may be that they should be willing to pay this additional cost, but it appears from past experience that they are not willing to do so. A proper enclosure would enable the high school pupils to charge for any events that they care to pull off, and if a little money were spent in putting the ground into shape it would be a good thing in many ways.

Coincident with the meeting of the industrial conference called by President Wilson, former Senator Bourne's "Republican publicly bureau" begins to attack organized labor. Is this Republican auxiliary attempting to discredit the conference as it has endeavored to belittle the League of Nations

Senator Sherman learned through "gossip in the cloak room" that the gifts received by President Wilson in Europe were worth "a half million if dollars." Mr. Sherman apparently depends on "the gossip of the cloak room" for much of the substance of his speeches in the Senate.

Twenty weeks of the special session of Congress under Republican auspices have been twenty weeks of empty air and expensive chattering. The G. O. P. has given up to that old legislative formula, "met pursuant to adjournment."

You can't make any storage battery last forever—that's a fact.

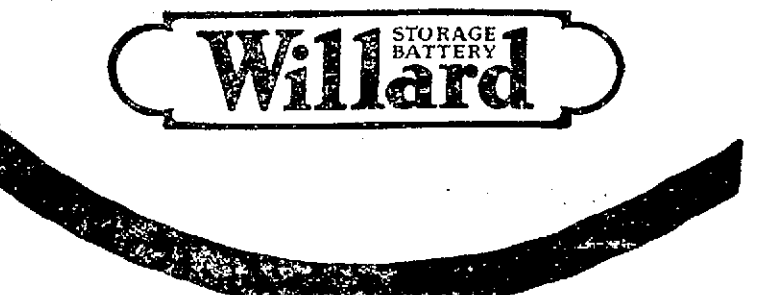

You've got to keep it filled with water and test it, just like a tire has to be kept filled with air, or it will cost you money.

Some day—if you have an ordinary battery—it's sure to have to be re-insulated, no matter who made it.

But—if you'll buy a Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation, you'll get clear away from the biggest cause of battery troubles. The insulation will probably last as long as the plates.

Drop in and ask us any question you can think of. We're here to give you the kind of help, service and advice that make friends.

CHAPLAIN PRAISES VALOR OF RED ARROW DIVISION

Rev. Gustave Sterns, formerly chaplain of the One Hundred and Thirty-Seventh Infantry of the Third-Second Division, speaking at the Methodist Church at Marshfield, paid the following tribute to the Wisconsin boys who fought abroad. The Grand Rapids boys were members of this division, while several were members of the unit of which Chaplain Sterns was a member. The Marshfield Herald quotes as follows from his talk:

"I was with our heroes for twenty months on three battle fronts and for patriotism and fearlessness nothing beat our Wisconsin boys. No state in the union can show better record."

The greatest after war surprise has been the extreme modesty of our American heroes and especially of our own Wisconsin boys.

As I was a noncombatant, I can speak of their heroism without being accused of boasting. I never killed anyone. I could never kill anyone unless I talked them to death. I did not deserve the title "the fighting chaplain." In my regiment it was not necessary for the chaplain to fight. Every man in the regiment except the chaplain, was a fighter. I did not help win the war, but I was with the boys who did help win the war and I saw them do it. I saw them go forward under artillery fire, with high explosives dropping round about them. I saw them marching on when bombing planes were over them and when their comrades were tottering and falling.

I was with them when 70 per cent of the officers and 42 per cent of the enlisted men of my regiment were killed, wounded or missing in the four days in the Chateau Thierry drive. I was burying the dead for five days in that drive. I buried fifty-one heroes the first day. But even when 1,500 out of the 3,500 men in my regiment were killed, wounded or missing our boys never stopped.

No power on earth could stop them. This is no idle boasting. The only power which could stop them was the Angel of Death. They never retreated an inch. They captured ten villages in one week, and they were rushed to another front near Soissons.

I again saw them in action there. We were put in front of the most famous fighting unit in the French army, the Foreign Legion, which gave the Wisconsin boys the title, "Les Terribles." I saw them win that title when they captured Juvigny.

I am glad our boys have been so modest, but I want the world to know what they did, and know that our country will be happy to sing the praises of her loyal sons from Wisconsin."

GUERNSEY BREEDERS

Gentlemen:

Five years ago there were but very few Guernsey bulls in Wood County and fewer females. That year two carloads of pure bred, females, were shipped into the county and dispersed among men who were beginners in the business. The progress of the Guernseys along with other dairy interests has been rapid in the last five years.

We now have under consideration the proposition of importing fifty to seventy-five pure bred heifer calves from the Island of Guernsey. These heifers will cost, laid down here, from $125 to $175, depending upon age and breeding. We are getting out a circular letter which will be sent to those who will be interested in getting one or more of these calves. If interested, we will be glad to hear from you and give you further information on the subject.

Chicago, July 1, 1919

Dear Brother John:

Take it from me, John, and don't try to find a job up here. City life is not all it's cracked up to be and often I wish I was back on the farm.

I never would have left home except that I got sick and tired of carrying water. It seemed like those twenty cows Pa had could soak up a lake and not feel it. If I missed a bucket or two Pa could tell it, because the cows would let down on milk when they didn't get enough water.

When I wasn't carrying water for the cows, I was carrying it for the house. Saturday night baths and wash day got to be a horror to me because I had to lug in the water for the whole family.

But you won't have all that trouble, John. Dad wrote and told me that he is having one of those Kewanee water systems that Eron the Plumber from Grand Rapids sells and that means that you will have nice fresh running water all over the place—nothing to do but turn a faucet, same as they do in the city. You better stick.

A cheap city flat and a skimpy pay envelope isn't half as fine as life on the farm with all the drudgery of lugging water left out. Gee I bet Ma will enjoy the new sink and the running water, hot and cold.

Your homesick brother, Bill.

You can't make any storage battery last forever—that's a fact.

You've got to keep it filled with water and test it, just like a tire has to be kept filled with air, or it will cost you money.

Some day—if you have an ordinary battery—it's sure to have to be re-insulated, no matter who made it.

But—if you'll buy a Willard Battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation, you'll get clear away from the biggest cause of battery troubles. The insulation will probably last as long as the plates.

Read This Letter
Chilton, Wis., Aug. 1, 1916.

Dear Doctor:

In September, 1912, I consulted you at Appleton, Wisconsin. At that time I weighed about 100 pounds and was suffering from shortness of breath and general breakdown of health. I had been told by a physician that I had consumption and I was to be kept in bed without getting any better. As soon as I began treatment with you I began to feel better, my breathing got all right and I began right away to gain in weight and strength. I have done a full day's work every day this summer, and am now in perfect health, and weigh 130 pounds, which is more than I ever weighed in my life. I am certainly glad that I came to you and feel that I am owing my good health to your skill in knowing how to treat me. You may refer to me at any time, anyone desiring proof of your ability.

Yours truly,

Criticism and Citizenship

It is the plain, public duty of every citizen to criticize proposed government measures believed to be harmful.

Swift & Company is in a better position perhaps, than others, to understand the meat packing business in all its relations to public and private interests, even though the others may have been giving the subject a great deal of sincere attention.

Swift & Company is convinced that interference with its legitimate business function by governmental agencies, however well intentioned, would be an injury to every man, woman and child who wants meat to eat, as well as to the men who raise the meat and to those who dress and distribute it.

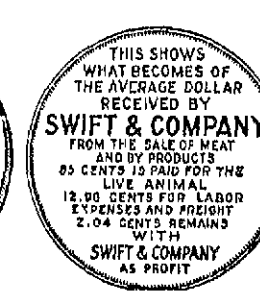

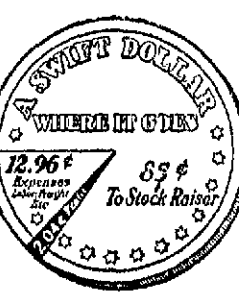

Maximum service that cannot monopolize because of keen competition and lack of control over sources of supply is furnished at a minimum of profit—a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources.

Therefore Swift & Company is taking every legitimate step of citizenship to prevent such interference.

These advertisements are intended to help you, and to help Congress decide what is best to be done. Mistakes are costly and apt to be harmful in these trying times.

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar."

CRAMER MEMORIAL INSTITUTE TO GROW

Hancock News.—William E. Cramer, for 50 years or more editor of the Evening Wisconsin in Milwaukee, passed quite a fortunate and uneventful life until his death a few years ago at a ripe old age. His mind was brilliant and he took a keen active part in life until his death. He was a native of Milwaukee, and his family had been in the city for many years. He was a constant and valued companion of Mr. Cramer, being a great help to him in his work. They lived in Milwaukee but had a summer home in Packwaukee, on the original Barker homestead, located in the early 50's by the father of Mrs. Cramer. It was never out of the possession of the family until the death of Mrs. Cramer to an organization of citizens of Packwaukee for a rest cure. This summer home was donated as a health resort to be known as the Cramer Memorial Institute. It was fitted up for operations and treatment of patients and opened last February with Dr. E. A. Schmidt, a Knapp cure specialist, in charge. Already the institution is in need of more room.

A new stock company is being formed to erect and equip a new building there at a cost of $100,000. The structure is to be 40x120 and three stories above the basement. It will be built of concrete and brick, with terra cotta floors. Spanish tile roof and fireproof throughout. The kitchen and bath will be located in the basement and sleeping porch and sun parlors on all floors. The plans include room for a heli, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Cramer Memorial Institute has given new life and hope to Packwaukee and is drawing people from afar to that famous old Indian camp ground, with its medicinal springs famous back to the time of Father Marquette, after whom the county was named. State highway No. 10 gives direct access to Packwaukee from Milwaukee over permanent highways by way of Watertown and Portage. While the highway is on the Soo line, and Buffalo station is only a mile and a half away. Buffalo lake, a widening in the Fox river fifteen miles long, is about half a mile wide at Packwaukee. The institute grounds are located on the shore of the lake.

TOMAH WILL SOON HAVE PNEUMATIC TIRE COMPANY

According to the Tomah Journal that city will have a Rubber Tire Company which has been recently organized, and which will build a new factory to be in operation next spring. The new company have a patented device which wears the motorist when he has a flat tire. It doesn't take most motorists long to find out when they have a flat tire, however, for those who bump along with such reckless abandon what they are not aware of when the tires are flat the new device may be a great help. The Journal says:

"This alarm is designed to make make auto travel more safe and less expensive. It is the invention of Mr. Leo Hofmeister, a Milwaukee business man who is engaged in manufacturing business in that city. Several other Milwaukee men are associated with Mr. Hofmeister in a corporation which will control the patent rights in this country and Canada. The corporation is formed under the laws of Wisconsin with sufficient capital for development purposes, and manufacture of tubes with the alarm attachment will begin as soon as a factory can be built and equipped.

The company has been in negotiation with several towns besides Tomah for the location of their factory with the result that this city has been chosen for the home of the new industry. Mr. Hofmeister and his associates in the enterprise were here Tuesday, when the matter was up for final action by the city council and was closed up in a satisfactory manner for all concerned. The company asked only for a site and certain exemptions from taxation for a period of ten years, which were granted by unanimous vote of the council.

The site given to the new concern is a portion of the old Goodway mill property now owned by the city. It is just north of the railroad and will have sidetrack connection.

The company wishes to start the building of its factory at once and to have it ready to begin manufacturing operations next spring. A building 100 ft square will first be put up and additions made as the need for more space develops. According to Mr. Hofmeister, the factory will require about fifty workmen on the start, but within two or three years will undoubtedly employ from 200 to 300 people.

MINOQUA TEACHERS STRIKE WHEN REFUSED HIGHER PAY

That the strikes which are becoming so general throughout the country are not limited to the laborers, nor to the ignorant or radical classes has been amply illustrated at Minocqua, where the district school teachers went on strike when they were refused an advance of $10 per month. The Minocqua Times tells the following about the strike, but does not relate whether there has been any riots between the strikers and the remaining "scab." The teachers are fortunate in having but one school to picket. The Times story follows:

"Rural school teachers with the exception of Miss Applebee went before the graded school board Saturday and requested an increase in salary of $10 per month. The board refused to grant the increase in salary and the pedagogues went on a strike.

The reason for refusing to grant a small increase in salary of $10 per month to rural school teachers is beyond our understanding. Wearing apparel has doubled and tripled, as has everything else, but the salary of the school teacher has been increased very little. The average laborer in Minocqua gets from $75 to $100 per month; however, when a teacher, who spent at least thirteen years of her life in school to prepare herself for the services she renders, requests that her salary be increased to $75 or $80 per month she is met with a flat refusal. Possibly it is perfectly alright to squeeze the dollar until the eagle on it squeaks, but we think this is false economy when it comes to educating the children. The average member of the school board who has not had a good substantial increase in his income during the past few years? But aside from the stand point of economy the fact remains that some of the rural schools are still closed. If all the members of the school board were fathers of children who attend rural schools it is quite likely that they would be more interested in seeing that these schools are kept open. Any fair minded person will say that the teachers are far from being unreasonable, so the best way to open the schools is to grant the teachers better salaries thereby opening the schools at once.

FIFTY-ONE CARLOADS OF LIME FOR CLARK COUNTY FARMS

Clark county beat the state record last year by ordering and using 51 carloads of lime for agricultural purposes. This year, says the county agent, they will double the amount and they still hope to keep the state record.

The county was the first to make liming popular on a big scale, ground limestone being ordered in carload lots at prices ranging from $3 to $3.20 a ton and shipped to central points in the county.

The usual application of lime is three tons to the acre. A group of analyses made last summer showed that every farmer in the group was using lime for the first time and the average was more than 20 tons each. In one community where lime was first tried last year nine carloads have already been ordered for this year. One farmer ordered which will control the patent rights in this country and Canada. The corporation is formed under the laws of Wisconsin with sufficient capital for development purposes, and manufacture of tubes with the alarm attachment will begin as soon as a factory can be built and equipped.

The company has been in negotiation with several towns besides Tomah for the location of their factory with the result that this city has been chosen for the home of the new industry. DESCRIPTION OF NEW GRAND AVE. BRIDGE

That the new proposed bridge over the Wisconsin river in this city will be both an ornamental and serviceable structure is indicated by the following description of it, which Div. Eng. F. F. Mengel, has given out.

The proposed bridge for Grand Avenue as designed by the Wisconsin Highway Commission will be of the spandrel arch construction. This means that there will be five arches, averaging about 90 feet, the largest arch in the center with the shore arches on each side. The space above the main arch rings will be occupied by small arches, and will carry the deck to supported the pavement. The total span of the bridge will be about 500 feet.

The bridge will be about 52 feet wide between railings, 36 foot driveway and an 8 foot sidewalk cantilevered on each side. The deck will be so designed that if desirable the Street Railway Line can pass over the bridge by simply tearing up a narrow strip of pavement, and provisions will also be made to carry the water mains.

The bridge will be designed so that its appearance will be in keeping with its surroundings, and an ornament to the city. The railing will either be of mass concrete with suitable ornamental designs and metal lamp posts or a baluster type with metal lamp posts.

There are two methods under consideration for carrying the traffic during construction.

1. To move the existing bridge to the south side of the street, building a temporary substructure to support it. 30 feet will then be available on the upstream side of the street for construction. When this half of the bridge is complete, including the footings and abutments for the whole bridge, traffic will be allowed to pass over the part completed, and the old bridge taken down.

2. It may be possible to secure piers from the War Department, and build a pontoon bridge connecting First Avenue and Second Street opposite Johnson street.

MORE THAN 400,000 MINERS IN U. S. QUIT THEIR JOBS

Nation's Vast Coal Supply Is Kept in the Pits.

NONUNION MEN AT WORK

Also a Few Union Miners Under Contract Remain on Duty—Several Mines in Kentucky and West Virginia Are Working.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Nearly all the nation's vast bituminous coal fields are closed, as a result of the miners' strike, although thousands of nonunion miners are at work and in scattered districts where contracts are still in force union miners reported as usual. Figures compiled by and based chiefly on union leaders' claims, in many cases conceded by the operators, showed that $425,820 men were out in 22 states.

In its piquant aspects the strike apparently has largely stopped production of soft coal but with large nonunion fields in Pennsylvania and West Virginia still operating near normal, and with a number of smaller fields also working with union contract miners, the actual effect upon production cannot be definitely stated.

Coal operators claimed thousands of nonunion miners were producing coal in the usual quantities, although conceding that in union fields the strike was effective.

Union leaders reported in most instances that the strike was virtually 100 per cent effective.

Report on Strike Numbers.

Tougher figures on the number of men, as compiled by the miners' leaders, were as follows:

Kentucky Mines Working.

West Virginia, Kentucky and West Virginia, West Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and other important fields, about half of Kentucky's 400,000 miners remained at work. That fact was accounted for by the fact that the miners and operators of the west Kentucky field signed an agreement about six weeks ago providing against a strike.

The most unusual situation was that in Utah, where the majority of the miners were reported still at work.

That condition resulted from conflicting instructions to the miners. John H. McHenry, Utah representative of the union, called off the strike and later rescinded his order. Many miners were evidently confused. Reports, however, indicated that about 1,000 were on strike.

Active in Colorado.

In Colorado, the Colorado Fuel and Iron company had five mines operating in one district. It was announced that the company made no attempt to operate in the Trinidad district.

North Dakota's 1,500 lignite miners remained at work.

Only 250 of the 4,800 miners of New Mexico were on strike.

Coal operators in Oklahoma, where the strike was complete, said their mines were held in readiness for operation as ordered by the government.

Frank Pomeroy, Illinois district president, announced that of the 90,000 miners of the state were idle.

While a few of the larger mines in Alabama were in operation, operators did not deny the claim of union leaders that about 25,000 men, or 90 per cent of their men, were on strike.

West Virginia coal operators asserted that operation in that state was 50 per cent of normal.

Troops on Duty.

A few thousand federal troops and state guardsmen were on duty on special duty in connection with the strike of soft coal miners or were on the move or awaiting assignment orders at the end of the first day of the walk-out.

Signs of coal in transit were begun at many points in Michigan, including Detroit, Saginaw and Bay City, under orders of the railroad administration. This was done, officials said, "as a precautionary measure," so the needs of the railroads may be met.

Labor Keen to End Strike.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Insistent conditions facing the country are far more serious than during the war, the advisory board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers issued a statement urging the immediate assembling in Washington of an industrial commission to remedy existing turbulent conditions.

The railroad men stipulate that the commission should be one "which will recognize the rights of all citizens and which is not pledged to oppose selfish bargaining."

"The railroad men state they 'deplore the action of the federal government in its present attempt at government by injunction, believing that such action will only tend to make conditions worse and defer if not defeat a peaceful settlement.'"

Follows a Conference.

The issuance of the statement prepared by President Warren S. Stone had done her best.

Hilda was having her first picture taken. She held her mouth wide open and the camera man told her to keep her mouth closed and to try to smile. Hilda did not see how that could be done. After the picture was developed we found that it was nice, but, said to relate, Hilda's mouth was closed as tight as she possibly could close it. We asked her the reason for this and she said, "Well, you see the man told me to close my mouth and then he told me to smile—so I closed my mouth as tight as I could and I smiled with my eyes."

Table Delicacies.

A young man who sat next to a demure young lady at the supper table found himself at a loss for words. Suddenly he thought of picture themes, "Are you fond of films?" he asked. "A general thing, yes," she answered sweetly, and before he could follow up the subject she added hastily, "but tonight, thank you—it is rather late, so I will be home."

Famous Philanthropic Center.

Hill house, Chicago, gets its name from the fact that the house was originally built in 1835 as a residence for one of Chicago's pioneer officers, Charles H. Hill. After passing through many changes, it was used as a school, a hotel, a warehouse, a store, then as a factory, then as a tenement house, with a reputation for a haunted attic. It finally, in 1880, passed into the hands of Miss Jane Addams as the headquarters and center of her charity and reform work. At first she rented the house and repaired and furnished it at her own expense, but a few months later the owner gave her a free lease of the house which ran for many years.

Under the Golden Rule.

When the Golden Rule becomes the law of human life all this (trivial) dissension will be changed. The employer will ask how much he can pay the worker, not how little. The worker will ask how much he can do, not how little—Benjamin Harrison.

and the other grand officers of the Locomotive Engineers is a sequel to the conference between representatives of all the railroad brotherhoods and Attorney General Palmer Friday. At this meeting the railroad men considered their "good offices" in the coal strike situation. The statement follows:

"In view of the condition facing our country at this time, which in our judgment is far more serious than during the late war, inasmuch as it affects all classes of the people, and in consideration of the situation, the advisory board of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, assembled at Washington and formulated the declaration of principles:

Serious Crises Seen.

"The advisory board of locomotive engineers, the undoubted Americanism of whose membership should assure them recognition, not only by the government, but every factor contributing to the welfare of all the people, believe that:

"The industrial conditions now confronting the nation, with capital and labor occupying a militant attitude toward each other, while the whole country is suffering from high cost of living, caused by hoarding and profiteering, resulting in general discontent, which tends to lower production, have brought about the most serious crisis in the history of our country.

"We believe:

"That there is no industrial dispute or misunderstanding that cannot be adjusted upon the basis of justice and right and we further believe that in seeking justice, justice should be practiced by all concerned.

"We believe in the laws and institutions of our country, which guarantee that all the people shall have equal opportunity and a fair and impartial hearing before being condemned. We deplore the action of the federal government in its present attempt at government by injunction, believing such action will only tend to make conditions worse and defer, if not defeat, a peaceful settlement.

"The advisory board has full assurance that we express the unanimous sentiment of the 55,000 members of our organization that the principle of collective bargaining is of vital importance to them and cannot be considered as harmful to any interest which deserves to be just and fair.

"As a remedy for the present turbulent conditions, we suggest that immediate steps be taken to assemble in Washington an industrial commission, which shall recognize the rights of all citizens and is not pledged to oppose selfish bargaining, as this is a time for deliberate action on the part of all concerned in a peaceful solution of the present conditions.

"We pledge the support of our organization to the government in every just and reasonable effort toward stabilizing industrial conditions to the end that normal conditions be restored."

Injunction Effect Felt.

Indianapolis, Nov. 3.—The full force of the government's most powerful weapon—injunction—is beginning to be felt by the United Mine Workers of America. The coal strike is on, but it is drifting without a pilot.

The great protest meeting intended to win public sympathy and encourage miners in the field, could not be launched.

At headquarters of the miners here none of the officials or attorneys wanted to talk. And when they talked they didn't want to be quoted. The speaker of the injunction was ever present.

But the full force of the injunction has not been felt in the field. Government officials were engaged in preparing for the issuance of federal writs in every coal-producing state in the country. These writs will be directed against state officials of the miners.

No Benefits in Sight.

When the miners laid down their backs they expected to receive strike benefits of not less than $5 a week, but in few if any of the fields can benefits be paid.

Bills, secretary, publicity director of the International organization, said no attempt would be made in the face of the injunction to carry on a propaganda campaign. He said it had been planned to take pages of advertising in 100 leading newspapers of the country. The miners wanted to lay before the public their reasons for demanding a five-day week and a six-day hour, and to explain why their demand for a 60 per cent increase in wages was not unreasonable.

Lewis Not Hopeful.

John L. Lewis, leading head of the miners, and other officials did not appear to hope for the injunction remedy to make the situation permanent.

Around the government's headquarters there was a constant air of confidence; at miners' headquarters there was a fairly veiled discouragement.

AID U. S. VISITORS TO GRAVES

The American Red Cross and Y. W. C. A. Announce New Service in France.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Americans visiting the graves of relatives and friends in France will receive every assistance under plans announced here by the American Red Cross. mouth as tight as I could and I smiled with my eyes."

Table Delicacies.

A young man who sat next to a demure young lady at the supper table found himself at a loss for words. Suddenly he thought of picture themes, "Are you fond of films?" he asked. "A general thing, yes," she answered sweetly, and before he could follow up the subject she added hastily, "but tonight, thank you—it is rather late, so I will be home."

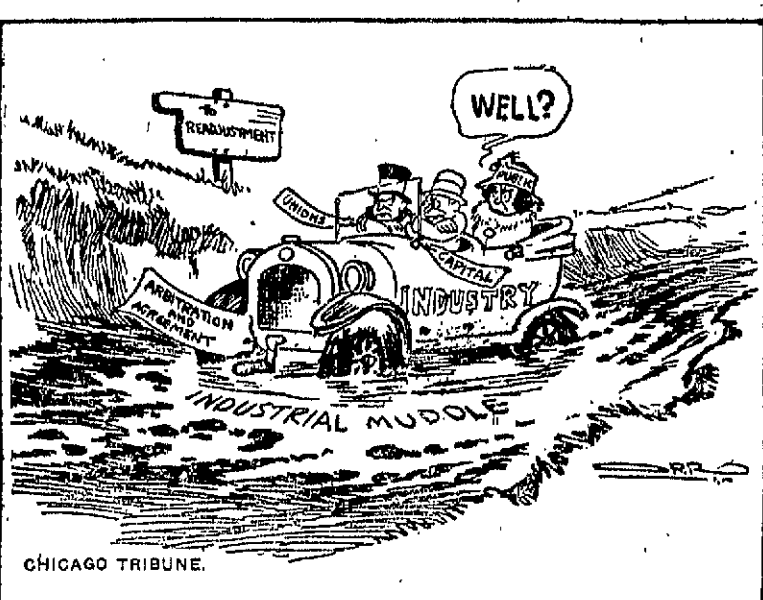

Famous Philanthropic Center.

Hill house, Chicago, gets its name from the fact that the house was originally built in 1835 as a residence for one of Chicago's pioneer officers, Charles H. Hill. After passing through many changes, it was used as a school, a hotel, a warehouse, a store, then as a factory, then as a tenement house, with a reputation for a haunted attic. It finally, in 1880, passed into the hands of Miss Jane Addams as the headquarters and center of her charity and reform work. At first she rented the house and repaired and furnished it at her own expense, but a few months later the owner gave her a free lease of the house which ran for many years.

Under the Golden Rule.

When the Golden Rule becomes the law of human life all this (trivial) dissension will be changed. The employer will ask how much he can pay the worker, not how little. The worker will ask how much he can do, not how little—Benjamin Harrison.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

PUTS LID ON MOVE COL. JUNKIN ACCUSED

CHICAGO GENERAL KILLS PLAN FOR GENERAL STRIKE.

Federation Declines Even to Listen to Resolution in Aid of the Steel Strikers.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—An attempt to introduce a resolution calling for a general strike of union workers in aid of the remaining steel strikers was squelched at the meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

When Barney Kortis, a delegate from Local No. 748 of the Machinists' union, took the floor to introduce it, President Fitzpatrick ruled him out of order.

"We have a rule that no resolutions can be introduced after two o'clock, and you are out of order," said Fitzpatrick.

"Then, again, nothing ever would come from such a move, for not even the American Federation of Labor could call a strike of all workers. That is up to the international unions."

"There is no hope or possibility that a general strike can be called, and I am not willing to waste time on something we cannot do or get away with."

Kortis had also risen to protest against taking up collections to aid the strikers.

"What we wish is to give them the best support possible, and that can be done by cutting everybody out on a strike," he said. "I have here a resolution calling for the general strike."

He started to read it, but President Fitzpatrick again ruled he was out of order, and added:

"The press is present and everybody has to be careful of what is said. We do not want our enemies, but our own men, who do not know the situation and propose something that cannot be done."

"The committee in charge of the strike has discussed every angle of this matter, but I cannot tell you what our plans are now. But there is no use for the brother to introduce the resolution."

New York Exchange Brokers Charge Loss During Government Control.

New York, Nov. 5.—The United States government is defendant in a suit to recover $100,000 brought by Hull & Co., exchange brokers, for the alleged failure by the Western Union Telegraph company to deliver a cable message. Postmaster-General Burleson had charge of the telegraph companies under President Wilson's war proclamation at the same time the message was said to have gone astray. The cablegram, which was addressed to a London broker last March, ordered the purchase of £100,000 at 8 1/2 p. It was stated, and when it was not delivered, Hull & Co. were forced in April to pay a high rate.

NEWS OF THE BADGER STATE

Madison.—A complete compilation of Wisconsin's actual war record in respect to number of enlistments, wounded, and killed, is being gathered by the adjutant general's office at practically no expense through the medium of the soldier bonus law. As the discharges come in from every Wisconsin war veteran they are sent to the service recognition board. From here they are sent to the war statistics department, where a short summary on a card is made up from the discharge before being sent back to the owner.

Kenosha.—The city of Kenosha was ordered to pay $8,000 in damages to the widows of Henry Strang, and George T. Smith, who were killed in an automobile accident here, April 26, by the verdict of a jury in the Circuit court here. It was held that a hole in the street had caused the driver of the death car to lose control at the wheel, and throw the machine into the path of the oncoming street car.

Racine.—For the first time in the history of Racine county, a phonograph was used in the rendition of songs at a funeral service. The occasion was the funeral of Mrs. Christine M. Bull, 76, who was born in the town of Dover in 1843. The phonograph, manufactured by P. F. Blumhain, son-in-law of the deceased, played Ave You From Heaven, Saved by Grace, and Some Time We Will Understand.

Stevens Point.—A new high school building for Stevens Point appears but a remote possibility because the city is "broke." The tax rate is near its maximum and only enough funds are available to pay the running expenses. Three committees appointed to investigate the question of a new high school building will recommend the construction of a school of approximately $130,000. How to raise this amount is a problem.

Marquette.—A big transfer of timber holdings was made recently near Eagle river when W. A. Curtis, Chicago, personally purchased the Montgomery-Ward timber holdings, amounting to 10,000 acres of pine and hardwood, a virgin tract located but a few miles from the state border. Curtis and company have entered into two contracts to supply the Montgomery-Ward people with all the lumber they will use in their Chicago plant.

Madison.—John R. Heim, 71, former

Watertown.—Honey producers of Wisconsin will gather at Madison, Dec. 4 and 5, when the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Beekeepers' association is to be held at the university. The meeting is being arranged by State Entomologist H. E. Wilson, and a number of progressive honey producers will appear on the program.

Madison.—The second news letter issued by the state marketing bureau reports a slight advance in the prices received for Wisconsin potatoes. The latest range of prices is from $1.70 to $2.05 per 100 pounds for No. 1 stock and $1.65 to $1.95 for No. 2 grade. There is little shipping to the latter grade. The demand and movement is moderate.

the harbor here and big catches of herring are reported. Several thousand pounds of fish are shipped by express to Chicago daily.

Train U. S. Boys to Repel Foes, Plea of Bishop

WASHINGTON.—Perfection of American citizenship, development of American manhood, and a mighty force for the maintenance of peace will follow the adoption of universal military and vocational training by the United States, declared Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago recently before the house military affairs committee. Similar views were expressed by H. H. Gross, president of the Universal Military Training League, who also appeared before the committee.

Both Bishop Fallows and Mr. Gross told of the great recent growth of sentiment among the people of the middle West for the adoption of this system for development of the youth. Bishop Fallows was a colonel in the Civil war. "The lack of preparedness and training during the Civil war was alarming," he said. "Scarcely any of them had any kind of training until almost at the end of the war. They were sent to the front with ten or fifteen days' training."

"I have been told that some of our men in this latest war were sent to the front with 30 to 60 days' training. A slaughter of men resulted," the bishop replied to Representative Kahn.

"No. Militarism is rule by soldiers in authority. There is not the slightest danger that this nation will be ruled by the military power."

U. S. Population Shifts in War, Census Shows

STRIKING changes in the growth and character of the population of the United States are expected to be shown by the 1920 census, preparations for which are under way. The shifting of population because of the war has upset the calculations of census experts, who since 1917 have considered it useless to attempt to estimate population of any other units than states. Before that it was possible to predict with a fair degree of accuracy the number of persons in any given locality.

"The center of population," it is believed, has stopped its westward movement, which was continuous from 1790 to 1910, when it was located in Mount Vernon, Ind. "This is because industrial cities in the central East, such as Cleveland and Detroit, have been growing at a greatly increased rate during the recent years, as have manufacturing centers farther east. Formerly, the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states increased in population with twice the rapidity of eastern and central states."

During this year, however, certain modifications of the unusual situation may be made. The opening of reclamation projects in the West, the resumption of immigration, and other causes, it is thought, will change the abnormal distribution. There will also be a tendency to return to normal now that the war is ended.

Profound changes are expected also in the "constitution of the population"—the ratio of males to females, the proportions of native and foreign stock and the age distribution.

Every Person in U. S. Has an Ugly Rat to Kill

THERE is a rat for every person in the United States. If every man, woman and child should make his rat and exact financial contribution to what these hundred million or more rats exact for upkeep annually, we would be setting aside a daily rat fund of one-half of one cent. On this basis the United States pays its rats about $180,000,000 every year, which sum would build and maintain a very adequate university or support a neat navy or keep Mexico satisfied for a long time.

The United States public health service has figured this out and issues these and many more rat facts in a brochure that calls upon all Americans who are fond of health to enlist in the government's war against the Norway rat, the brown rat, the common black rat and the Alexandrian rat, which is a particularly mean beast of untidy habits and a native disregard for the most elemental of the niceties of life.

The Norway rat is the largest and most voracious of America's rodents. He'll eat anything, not stopping at a very small child if particularly hungry. He has been very well killed off and the government adjures all of us who see him to attack at once and crush him. The black rat and the Alexandrian have been confined by various household and barnyard traps, poisons and other exterminators to the water fronts of sea ports. They are all aliens, their ancestors having come from Egypt, Norway and other old world countries as far back as the days of John Smith and Salem witchcraft.

The United States public health service doesn't like rat killing to be left to untrained methods, but says that rat poisoning, catching, trapping and extermination is more effective than trapping, then go out after the rat in the open.

Under the shibboleth "Rat the Rat," the Public Health Service has issued raters, chief of which is "Demand city ratrator ordinances and state antirrat laws."

Demonstrates Value of American Citizenship

ANOTHER step was taken a few days ago in the race to save a great fortune when the senate adopted the joint resolution restoring to citizenship Frances Scoville Mumm. The house will be urged to act with haste. This is the second time in legislative history here that a woman has been repatriated by act of congress. The other case was that of Nellie Grant Sartoris when she returned from England.

Mrs. Mumm is the daughter of C. S. K. Scoville, a banker of Salina, Kan., who, while traveling in Europe, she met Walter Mumm, a German subject allied with the great champagne-making family of that name. His business interests had caused him to reside in France for 20 years. The marriage was an international social event. When the war began Mumm returned to Germany, while the wife remained in France and rendered service to the allied armies as a nurse. She and her husband reached an agreement which was filed at the American legation in Bern, under which she was to receive a share of his estate. It was impossible for her to reach the German courts or apply for a divorce in them.

Under the peace treaty the property of German citizens was subject to confiscation in France. Such procedure would cause Mrs. Mumm to lose her share, which is said to be a large sum. Representations were made to the French authorities and regret was expressed by them that no alternative remained, but loss for her under the present circumstances. It was pointed out that if she were an American citizen the situation would be entirely different.

Mrs. Mumm hastened here and Senator Capper introduced a joint resolution restoring her citizenship. If this can be accomplished before her husband's property is confiscated her share will not be affected by the peace treaty.

The case is being eagerly watched by others whose interests have become involved because of property holdings in Germany and other countries which were at war.

No; Costly Silk Stockings Do Not Grow on Trees

FIFTEEN million pairs of silk stockings, the product of the American forests, were sent out of the United States last year to compete with the product of the oriental silk worm. Not that these American silk stockings actually grew on the trees, but they were made from wood pulp, the product of American forests. The rapid growth in the art of making artificial silk in the United States is illustrated, according to a statement by a government official, by the fact that 15,000,000 pairs of stockings manufactured from artificial silk were exported from the United States in the fiscal year 1919, against only 6,000,000 pairs in 1918 and 2,000,000 in 1917.

So rapid has been the development of this industry by which the American chemists and manufacturers have entered into competition with the oriental silk worm that the value of artificial silk manufactures exported from the United States has grown from $897,000 in the fiscal year 1917 to $2,329,000 in 1918, and $7,677,000 in 1919, being thus nine times as much in value in 1919 as only two years earlier.

The process by which the forests are treated with caustic soda to form a comparatively simple one. Wood pulp is treated with caustic soda to form a sodium disulphide. The product, after being filtered and allowed to ripen by standing is forced through capillary tubes into a liquid which solidifies the threads which are, when completed, similar in appearance, dimension and chemical qualities to the fiber produced by the silk worm.

SPACE CONSERVED IN THIS HOME

Rooms Designed to Give Maximum in Comfort.

Home Builders Find Smaller Houses Are Easy to Care For and Provide All Comforts of Larger Dwellings.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of home building. He is the author of the book, "Home Building," published by the National Home Building Bureau, 1237 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The present-day home builder is to be congratulated. In the houses that are designed and constructed in this generation there has been a complete change in the idea that a house to be comfortable has to have innumerable rooms that are seldom used. The modern home contains only as many rooms as the owner can use continuously, but those rooms are designed so that they give the maximum in comfort, and at the same time do not overburden the housekeeper with work. And what is of greatest importance is that this idea of conservation of space without sacrifice of comfort has made it possible to build a home more cheaply.

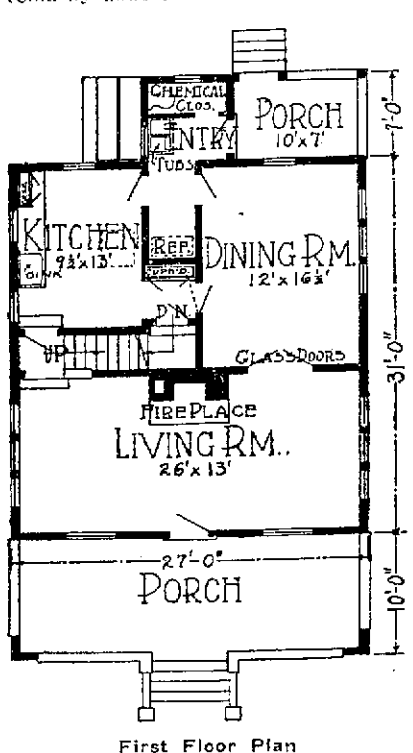

The home shown in the accompanying illustration embodies the features mentioned. This is a small house that is not costly to build, but it contains accommodations for the average family, and the rooms are so arranged that it is an exceptionally comfortable and convenient home. Also it is a home that can be erected on a comparatively small lot, as its dimensions are only 27 by 31 feet.

As will be seen by the perspective view this is a most attractive home from the exterior. The roof starting at the ridge runs in a graceful curve out over the wide front porch, while in the front is set a gable dormer window that breaks the long lines. The stucco columns of the porch give the home a more substantial appearance. The porch is 26 feet long and 10 feet wide, making it commodious and inviting.

The arrangement of the rooms, their sizes and the convenient manner in which they have been placed are shown on the floor plans. The five rooms consist of living and dining rooms and kitchen on the first floor, and two bedrooms and bath on the second. The living room is 23 by 23 feet and has the fireplace set in the center. The location of the fireplace where the flues are not exposed to the outside also conserves fuel; also it costs less, as the brick walls of the chimney do not have to be so thick. The dining room, connected with the living room by double doors, is 12 by 10 feet

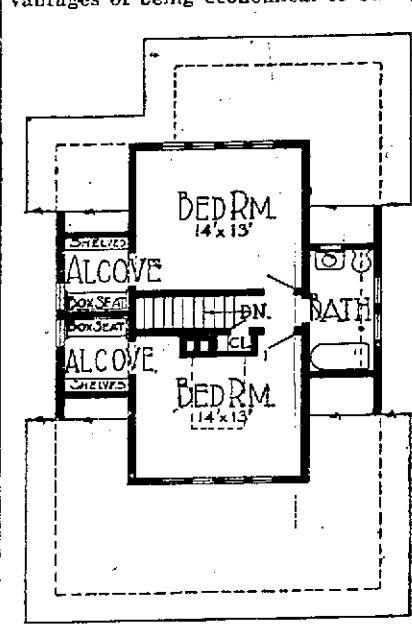

8 inches. The kitchen also is large, 9 feet 6 inches by 13 feet, but what will appeal to the housekeeper is the convenient arrangement of its fixtures. Sink, table and wall case are located under the windows, so that there is good light; the range is directly opposite, so that the shortest possible distance will have to be traveled in doing the work. The cupboard for the dishes is between the kitchen and dining room, while the refrigerator is set into an alcove. In the entryway, between the kitchen proper and the rear porch, are located the washbasin. This takes the washing out of the kitchen, but saves the work of running up and down the basement stairs. Here also space for a convenient closet, which is a great convenience and comfort in rural communities where there is no water system.

On the second floor the two bedrooms open off a central hall, one at the front of the house and the other at the rear. In one gable at the end of the hall is the bathroom, handy to both of the bedrooms. Built into the other gable and opening off the bedrooms are alcoves, with shelves on one side and a box seat on the other.

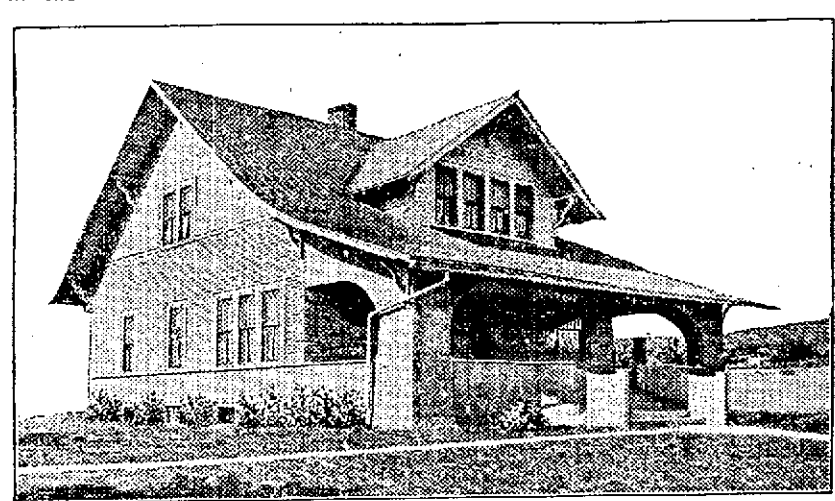

Both the exterior and interior of this home are of the sort that will appeal to many hundreds of the thousands of persons who now are planning to build homes of their own. It has the advantages of being economical to build, easy to care for and of being attractive in appearance, and exceptionally comfortable within.

Banks throughout the country now are conducting "Home Building Savings Clubs," and thousands of members have started to save consistently for homes of their own. The plan is simply that those who want homes of their own begin to save certain sums at stated intervals, weekly or monthly. When the savings have reached the amount required for the first payment on the home, the house is erected and the owner lives in it while paying the balance of the cost in monthly payments, just as the renter pays his landlord. The difference is that with in a few years the home is paid for and belongs to the family that lives in it.

Every member of these "Home Savings Clubs" should be deciding on the sort of home that he wants and of the design for that home, for planning the home that is to be built should not be done hurriedly. It should be planned what the home is finally planned and built will be lived in for a number of years, unless the owner should decide to sell, and the design should be selected accordingly. There are thousands of good house designs that are easily obtainable. A consultation with the banker, the lumber dealer, the local architect, or the building contractor will secure for the prospective builder the designs of homes of the sort that he thinks he would like to have.

A study of these designs will give the home builder many good ideas of home planning, and will aid him materially in picking the home that he wants to spend his money for. Building a home is the best move that any man of family working on a salary can make. It not only gives him a real home that he owns, but it enables him to save his money, and in the course of a few years he has a most valuable asset. And while he is accumulating this asset he has the satisfaction of living in his own home.

Routed the Agent.
One of our honest old farmers came in the house and found a sewing machine agent demonstrating to the women what fine work it would do. The agent asked the farmer to bring in a shingle and said: "I will show you that the Wonder Work machine will do heavy work, for I will stitch right across the top of the shingle, where it is at least one-sixteenth of an inch thick." "Not interested," said the farmer. "Over 'cross here 'bout three miles northeast a young man built a house last summer and I'll be darned if his wife didn't take her Mechanical Wonder sewing machine and stitch on every blade course of clapboards from gables and eaves clean down to the sills." As the agent slammed his machine into his light truck and chugged away the farmer turned to his wife and said: "Well, Rita, I sowed that agent up all right, didn't I? Now let's have supper."

France Needs Farm Machinery.
With France forced to import such a large percentage of its farm machinery, and with commercial shipping forces into the background by the needs of the war, it is a natural inference that the French dealers now have practically no stocks of farm machinery. The failure of new stocks to arrive has caused the sale of the machinery left on hand in past seasons. The farmers object not so much to the high prices as to their inability to obtain the needed machinery at any figure.

Musings of Martha.
Before a man's married you'd think he hadn't another thing in 't world 'o do but court you, an' after he's wedded he's so busy all the time he plumb forgets how.

Jones and Mrs. Robinson cannot endure it. Has this habit of a husband ever been cited as "extreme cruelty" in divorce proceedings?

Father of Whist.
The modern game whist evolved by Edmund Hoyle, who died 150 years ago. He wrote a treatise on whist which ran into five editions in a year, and achieved such fame as a coach to whist players that Byron once exclaimed: "Troy owes to Hoyle what whist owes to Hoyle."

DEAN OF COLLEGE COACHES IS TITLE OF KEENE FITZPATRICK OF PRINCETON

"Dean of American College Coaches." That is the title that truthfully belongs to Keene Fitzpatrick of Princeton.

Entering upon his thirtieth year as trainer and coach of college athletes, the dignified popular "dean," who first years ago in Princeton, N. J., saw the light of day nearly fifty-five years ago in Natick—recognized as the home of the country's best trainers—takes up his duties at Princeton this week.

Fitzpatrick is Loved.

Princeton has learned to love Fitzpatrick just as much as it does the members of the famous Poe family. Sam White and others who have brought glory to the Princeton institution. He has built up the athletic department, just as he had done at Michigan, where he was the big man of the middle West before going to Princeton.

Michigan also has learned to respect Fitzpatrick. His word was always law, writes John J. Mahabian in Boston Globe.

Keene always has been of quiet disposition, preferring to let his deeds speak for him. They have, and when classes in graduating at Princeton honor him as an honorary member of their classes, it speaks volumes of the esteem and respect they have toward him down in New Jersey.

With the late Mike Murphy, "Pooch" Donovan of Harvard, "Piper" Donovan, the first American sprinter to run 100 yards in 9.5 seconds; Johnny Mack of Yale, "Sid" Peet and others, he was one of the noted group of sprinters who trained at Sunnyside Park, Natick, for the professional foot races in the days before amateur athletics was established.

Organized Famous Teams.
He was one of the first to organize the famous hose, hook and ladder teams, when racing of this kind was so popular and the rivalry between Massachusetts towns was keen.

It was at Yale that Fitzpatrick made his start at a trainer in 1890 and 1891. Contrary to the general impression, Fitz was alone in handling the condition of the football players and coaching the track men.

YANKS FINISH THIRD

George Mogridge had the distinction of bringing home the Yanks in third place this season. With a slice of the world series mien at stake Mogridge never worked harder to defeat Connie Mack's misfits in the final fling of the year. Mogridge got two hits, one a triple that decided the issue and kept the Athletics back in the rack. The Yanks finished one game ahead of the Tigers and got about $300 each for leading in third place.

SCRAPPING MANAGER STILL IN BASEBALL

Both Leagues Boast of Leaders Handy With Their Fists.

Former Star Player Laments Fact That Game is Becoming Hand-Shaking Institution—Diamond Battles Not Numerous.

Jess Burkett, former big league star batsman, recently lamented the fact that baseball was becoming a hand-shaking institution. There is not enough fight in the modern game of baseball to suit the aggressive Jess. Perhaps battles on the diamond are not as numerous as they once were, but it cannot be said that the present condition which Burkett mourns has been brought about entirely by the course of the game. For the big leagues today nearly all of the players are known quantities as far as scrapping goes.

In the American league there are two premier performers with their mites in Ed Barrows of the Red Sox and "Kid" Gleason of the Chicago White Sox. And Jimmy Burke of the Browns and Clarke Griffith of the Senators cannot be considered shrinking violets.

The National league, however, is much better equipped in the matter of fighting leaders in Hugo Bezdek of the Pirates, John McGraw of the Giants, Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, Fred Mitchell of the Cubs and George Stallings of the Braves. Any of this crowd will battle, and if rumors can be credited, any of them can, in a pinch, go to the mat with an obnoxious player.

A FREAK PLAY

There have been many freak plays this season at the Polo ground, but one that occurred in the final game of the season between the Giants and Pirates was one for the books. It happened in the seventh inning, Schmidt, the Pittsburgh catcher, was at bat. He hit a grounder sharply at Zimmerman. Heinle deided the ball cleanly, but noticed that Schmidt did not run to first. Instead, the visiting backstop was rapping his bat on the ground to see if it had been broken by the blow. So Zimmerman tossed the ball to Fletcher. Fletcher relayed it to Frisch and Frisch passed it to Chase, retiring Schmidt at first base. Schmidt's bat had been fractured at the handle.

GIVE VARDON CREDIT FOR PECULIAR GRIP

Supposition Is Incorrect, According to Harold Hilton.

John Ernest Laidley Held All of His Clubs by Aid of Overlapping Fingers Long Before Vardon Became Prominent.

While a majority of the star golfers in this country use what is known as the overlapping grip, there are few who know the origin of this method. If the average links devotee were asked, who was the pioneer of this style, he would probably reply without hesitation, "Harry Vardon, of course," but, according to Harold H. Hilton, former British amateur champion, this is incorrect.

Many years before Vardon was taking part in championship golf a certain amateur, John Ernest Laidley, was playing better than any other in Scotland and at the same time much more on a par with the best professional, titled in either Scotland or England, says Hilton. Laidley was holding the grip of all his clubs by the aid of overlapping the fingers of the right hand over the forefinger and thumb of the left hand, and his success was so great that one would have naturally assumed that he would have many imitators.

No doubt in his own circle at Musselburgh and at North Berwick there was a certain circle of admirers who followed him, but as none of them made any marked success it became somewhat recognized that Laidley's unique methods were simply the eccentricity of golf genius, and were not safe for the ordinary man to imitate.

Next to adopt the overlapping grip among the famous players was J. H. Taylor. He is a slightly younger man than Vardon, and while it would not be fair to assume that he took to the method of grip before Vardon, he appeared in first class golf before the Jersey man and made a success of it before the latter did, so he must be viewed in the light of being the second apostle of the grip which is so prevalent in present-day golf.

A little later Vardon came on the scene, utilizing a similar grip to that of Laidley and Taylor, and it was only then that the critics began to think enough to realize that there must be something in this method of gripping the club. Soon there became quite a craze for overlapping the fingers, and the comparatively new form of hold was termed the "Vardon" grip, by which it is referred to to this day. By that name it will probably always be known.

CAT WOULD CATCH BURGLAR SUSPECT

"Alcibiades" Is Precocious Young Feline of Record and Adventure.

Oakland, Cal.—"Alcibiades" caught a burglar—and also "Alcibiades" isn't a polliwog.

"Alcibiades" is a precocious young black cat, the property of Clarence Wood Soames, 1824 Harrison street, and a cat of record and adventure. His latest bit for fame has just been made.

Soames had rented to a friend a room on the second floor of his house, neglecting to advise "Alcibiades" of the fact. In line with his usual custom, the cat occupied the front porch on the night the new roomer reached the house, shortly after two o'clock in the morning.

"Alcibiades" was perturbed by the arrival of the stranger, and his suspicious were aroused. Something was wrong and the cat took to the roof. Climbing to the top of the fence immediately under the room occupied by Soames, he set up a prolonged howl until his owner, sending trouble, arose and let the disturbance to the front door.

Dashing upstairs and squinting before the door of the new roomer, "Alcibiades" continued his vocal exertions with redoubled energy. Finally realizing what was troubling the mind of the feline, Soames explained the situation to the satisfaction of the feline, whereupon "Alcibiades" subsided, returned to the front porch and quiet was restored.

During the daytime "Alcibiades" has for his playmate a young human rooster with which he shares his meals.

Child's Life Saved by Falling Window

Savannah, Ga.—Little Katherine, the Jungstetter owes her life to the fact that a window sash fell from a third story window through which she had fallen.

The child is three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Jungstetter. She was playing near a third-story window when she fell through the screen. The accident caused the heavy sash, which caught her when her body was more than half out of the window. She was held in this perilous position until her cries brought assistance.

Sound of its Fall Made Thief in Oregon Disgorge Loot and Then Beat It Quickly.

Medford, Ore.—A thief entered a home in this city. He had ransacked several rooms, pocketed a gold watch and a bunch of jewels belonging to a lady occupant of one story, a valuable pipe from a male roomer, pulled on a pair of men's shoes, pulled on another, crumbled a pair of trousers and started for the door. Just then a wooden leg dropped from the pants loots.

As it struck the unoccupied floor with a loud thud the frightened burglar emptied his pockets of the loot he had stolen and with a yell dashed from the premises.

It is the opinion of the owner of the house, T. M. Thompson, that he is running yet.

Forget is alleged to have confessed that, owing to financial conditions and the helplessness of his son, he had decided to do away with him.

Train U. S. Boys to Repel Foes, Plea of Bishop

WASHINGTON.—Perfection of American citizenship, development of American manhood, and a mighty force for the maintenance of peace will follow the adoption of universal military and vocational training by the United States, declared Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago recently before the house military affairs committee. Similar views were expressed by H. H. Gross, president of the Universal Military Training League, who also appeared before the committee.

Both Bishop Fallows and Mr. Gross told of the great recent growth of sentiment among the people of the middle West for the adoption of this system for development of the youth.

Bishop Fallows was a colonel in the Civil war. The lack of preparation and training during the Civil war was alarming, he said. "Scarcely any of them had any kind of training until almost at the end of the war. They were sent to the front with ten or fifteen days' training."

"I have been told that some of our men in this latest war were sent to the front with 30 to 60 days' training. A slaughter of men resulted."

Asked whether universal training would lead to "militarism," the bishop replied to Representative Kahn:

"No. Militarism is rule by soldiers in authority. There is not the slightest danger that this nation will be ruled by the military power."

U. S. Population Shifts in War, Census Shows

STRIKING changes in the growth and character of the population of the United States are expected to be shown by the 1920 census, preparations for which are under way. The shifting of population because of the war has upset the calculations of census experts, who since 1917 have considered it useless to attempt to estimate population of any other units than states. Before that it was possible to predict with a fair degree of accuracy the number of persons in any given locality.

The "center of population," it is believed, has stopped its westward movement, which was continuous from 1790 to 1910, when it was located in Bloomington, Ind. This is because industrial cities in the central East, such as Cleveland and Detroit, have been growing at a greatly increased rate during the recent years, as have manufacturing centers farther east. Formerly, the rocky mountain and Pacific coast states increased in population with twice the rapidity of eastern and central states.

During this year, however, certain modifications of the unusual situation may be made. The opening of recruitment projects in the West, the resumption of immigration, and other causes, it is thought, will change the abnormal distribution. There will also be a tendency to return to normal now that the war is ended.

Pronounced changes are expected also in the "constitution of the population"—the ratio of males to females, the proportions of native and foreign stock and the age distribution.

Every Person in U. S. Has an Ugly Rat to Kill

THERE is a rat for every person in the United States. If every man, woman and child should make his or her financial pro rata contribution to what these hundred million or more rats exact for upkeep annually, we would be setting aside a fully rat fund of one-half of one cent. On this basis the United States pays its rats about $180,000,000 every year, which sum would build and maintain a very adequate university or support a good navy or keep Mexico satisfied for a long time.

The United States public health service has figured this out and issues these and many more rat facts in a brochure that calls upon all Americans who are fond of health to enlist in the government's war against the Norway rat.

or brown rat, the common black rat and the Alexandrian rat, which is a particularly mean beast of unhygienic habits and a native scourge for the most elemental of the noxious of life.

The Norway rat is the largest and most ferocious of American rodents. He'll eat anything, not stopping at a very small child if particularly hungry. He has been pretty well killed off and the government advises all of us who see him to attack at once and crush him. The black rat and the Alexandrian have been confined by various household and barnyard traps, poisons and other exterminators to the water fronts of sea ports. They are all alive, their ancestors having come from Egypt, Norway and other old world countries as far back as the days of John Smith and Sutan witchcraft.

The United States public health service doesn't limit rat killing to any stated methods, but says that rat proofing one's home and barns and granaries is more effective than trusting to rat catchers—mechanical or animal—traps or poisons. First rat proof your buildings, then go out after the rat in the open.

Under the shibboleth "Rat the Rat," the Public health service has issued rules, chief of which is "Demand city antiraid ordinances and state antiraid laws."

Demonstrates Value of American Citizenship

ANOTHER step was taken a few days ago in the race to save a great fortune when the senate adopted the joint resolution restoring to citizenship Frances Scoville-Mumma. The house will be urged to act with haste. This is the second time in legislative history here that a woman has been repatriated by act of congress. The other case was that of Nellie Grant Sartoris when she returned from England.

Mrs. Mumma is the daughter of C. C. Scoville, a banker of Salem, Kan. While traveling in Europe she met Walter Mumma, a German subject affiliated with the great champagne-drinking family of that name. His business interests had caused him to reside in France for 20 years. The marriage was an international social event. When the war began Mumma returned to Germany, while the wife remained in France and rendered service to the allied armies as a nurse. She and her husband reached an agreement which was filed at the American legation in Bern, under which she was to receive a share of his estate. It was impossible for her to reach the German courts or apply for a divorce in them.

Under the peace treaty the property of German citizens was subject to confiscation in France. Such procedure would cause Mrs. Mumma to lose her share, which is said to be a large sum. Representations were made to the French authorities and regard was expressed by them that no alternative remained but loss for her under the present circumstances. It was pointed out that if she were an American citizen the situation would be entirely different.

Mrs. Mumma hastened here and Senator Capper introduced a joint resolution restoring her citizenship. If this can be accomplished before her husband's property is confiscated her share will not be affected by the peace treaty.

No; Costly Silk Stockings Do Not Grow on Trees

FIFTEEN million pairs of silk stockings, the product of the American forests, were sent out of the United States last year to compete with the product of the oriental silk worm. Not that these American silk stockings actually grew on the trees, but they were made from wood pulp, the product of American forests. The rapid growth in the art of making artificial silk in the United States is illustrated, according to a statement by a government official, by the fact that 15,000,000 pairs of stockings manufactured from artificial silk were exported from the United States in the fiscal year 1919, against only 6,000,000 pairs in 1918 and 2,000,000 in 1917.

So rapid has been the development of this industry by which the American chemists and manufacturers have entered into competition with the oriental silk worm that the value of artificial silk manufactures exported from the United States has grown from $857,000 in the fiscal year 1917 to $2,330,000 in 1918, and $7,677,000 in 1919, being thus nine times as much in value in 1919 as only two years earlier.

The process by which the forests are turned into silk stockings is a comparatively simple one. Wood pulp is treated with caustic soda to form a sodium disulphide. The product, alkali-cellulose disulphide, is a viscous solution properly called "viscose," and after being filtered and allowed to stand by standing is forced through capillary tubes into a liquid which solidifies the threads, which are then completely similar in appearance, dimension and chemical qualities to the fiber produced by the silk worm.

SPACE CONSERVED IN THIS HOME

Rooms Designed to Give Maximum in Comfort.

Home Builders Find Smaller Houses Are Easy to Care For and Provide All Comforts of Larger Dwellings.

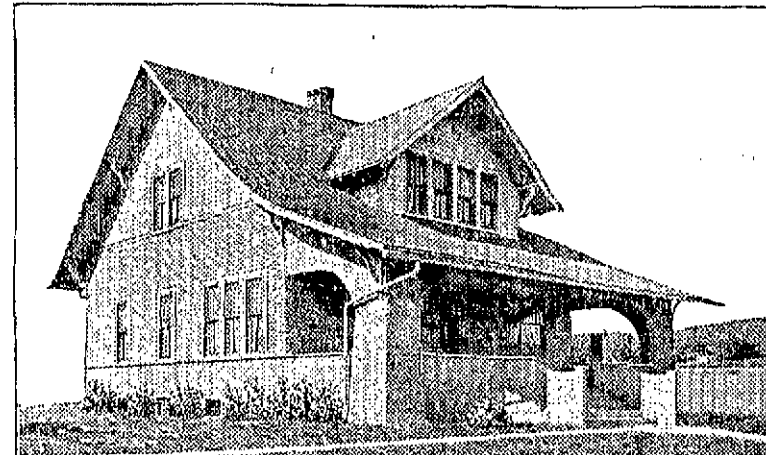

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Write him at his home, 127 Franklin Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose five-cent stamp for reply.

The present-day home builder is to be congratulated. In the homes that are designed and constructed in this generation there has been a complete change in the idea that a house to be comfortable has to have innumerable rooms that are seldom used. The modern home contains only as many rooms as the owner can use continuously, but these rooms are designed so that they give the maximum in comfort, and at the same time do not overburden the housekeeper with work. And what is of greatest importance is that this idea of conservation of space without sacrifice of comfort has made it possible to build a home more cheaply.

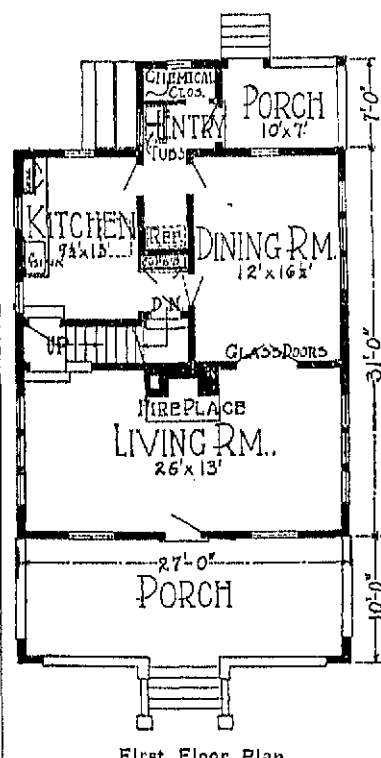

The home shown in the accompanying illustration embodies the features mentioned. This is a small house that is not costly to build, but it contains accommodations for the average family, and the rooms are so arranged that it is an exceptionally comfortable and convenient home. Also it is a home that can be erected on a comparatively small lot, as its dimensions are only 27 by 31 feet.

As will be seen by the perspective view this is a most attractive home from the exterior. The roof starting at the ridge runs in a graceful curve over the wide front porch, while in the front is set a gable dormer window that breaks the long lines. The shingle curtains of the porch give the home a more substantial appearance. The porch is 20 feet long and 10 feet wide, making it commodious and inviting.

The arrangement of the rooms, their sizes and the convenient manner in which they have been placed are shown on the floor plans. The five rooms consist of living and dining rooms and kitchen on the first floor, and two bedrooms and bath on the second. The living room is 23 by 13 feet and has the fireplace set in the center. The location of the fireplace where the flues are not exposed to the outside air conserves fuel; also it costs less, as the brick walls of the chimney do not have to be so thick. The dining room, connected with the living room by double doors, is 12 by 10 feet

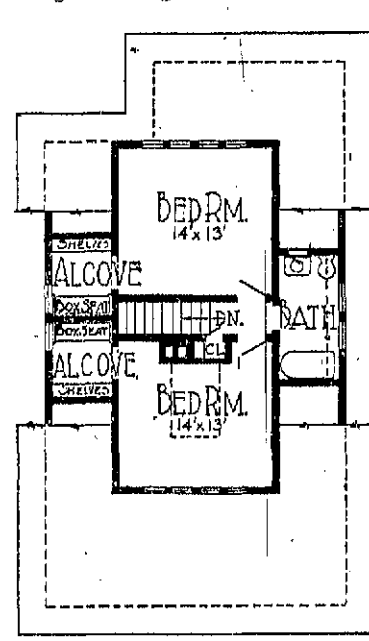

6 inches. The kitchen also is large, 9 feet 6 inches by 13 feet, but what will appeal to the housekeeper is the convenient arrangement of its fixtures. Sink, table and wall case are located under the windows, so that there is good light; the range is directly opposite, so that the shortest possible distance will have to be traveled in doing the work. The cupboard for the dishes is between the kitchen and dining room, while the refrigerator is set into an alcove. In the entryway, between the kitchen proper and the rear porch, are located the closets. This takes the washing out of the kitchen, but saves the work of running up and down the basement stairs. Here also is space for a chemical closet, which is a great convenience and comfort in rural communities where there is no water system.

On the second floor the two bedrooms open off a central hall, one at the front of the house and the other at the rear. In one gable at the end of the hall is the bathroom, handy to both of the bedrooms. Built into the other gable and opening off the bedrooms are alcoves, with shelves on one side and a box seat on the other.

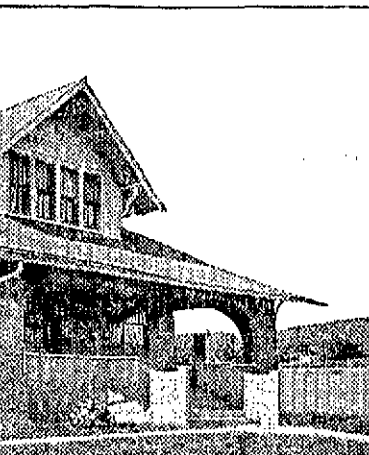

Both the exterior and interior of this home are of the sort that will appeal to many hundreds of the thousands of persons who now are planning to build homes of their own. It has the advantages of being economical to build, easy to care for and of being attractive in appearance, and exceptionally comfortable within.

Bankers throughout the country now are conducting "Home Building Savings Clubs," and thousands of members have started to save consistently for homes of their own. The plan is simply that those who want homes of their own begin to save certain sums at stated intervals, weekly or monthly. When the savings have reached the amount required for the first payment on the home, the house is erected and the owner lives in it while paying the balance of the cost in monthly installments, just as the renter pays his landlord. The difference is that within a few years the home is paid for and belongs to the family that lives in it.

Every member of these "Home Savings Clubs" should be deciding on the design of home that he wants and of the sort for this home, for planning the home that is to be built should not be done hurriedly. It should be remembered that the home as finally planned and built will be lived in for a number of years, unless the owner should decide to sell, and the design should be selected accordingly. There are thousands of good house designs that are easily obtainable. A consultation with the banker, the lumber dealer, the local architect, or the building contractor will secure for the prospective builder designs of homes of the sort that he thinks he would like to have. A study of these designs will give the home builder many good ideas of home planning, and will aid him materially in picking the home that he wants to spend his money for.

Building a home is the best move that any man of family working on a salary can make. It not only gives him a real home that he owns, but it enables him to save his money, and in the course of a few years he has a most valuable asset. And while he is accumulating this asset he has the satisfaction of living in his own home.

One of our honest old farmers came in the house and found a sewing machine agent demonstrating to the women what fine work it would do. The agent asked the farmer to bring in a shingle and said: "I will show you that the Wonder Worker machine will do heavy work, for I will stitch right across the tip of the shingle, where it is at least one-sixteenth of an inch thick." "Not interested," said the farmer. "Over 'cross here 'bout three miles northwest a young man built a house last summer and I'll be darned if his wife didn't take her Mechanical Wonder sewing machine and stitch on every blank course of clapboards from gables and eaves clean down to the sills." As the agent slung his machine into his light truck and chugged away the farmer turned to his wife and said: "Well, Rita, I sowed that agent up all right, didn't I? Now let's have supper."

France Needs Farm Machinery. With France forced to import such a large percentage of its farm machinery, and with commercial shipping forced into the background by the needs of the war, it is a natural inference that the French farmers now have practically no stocks of farm machinery. The failure of new stocks to arrive has caused the sale of the machinery left on hand in past seasons. The farmers object, not so much to the high prices as to their inability to obtain the needed machinery at any figure.

Musings of Martha. Before a man's married you'd think he hadn't nothing in the world 't' do but court you, an' after he wedded he's so busy all the time he plumb forgets how.

Objections to "Tub Song." The singing of the male in a tub is not encouraged by the females in many households. For some reason it troubles them, as the early crowing of the cock is objectionable to some in the neighborhood. (Cock crowing did send Spencer and yet he is called a philosopher.) The quality of the vocal performance has nothing to do with it. Jones and Robinson may sing tunelessly or in a manner to put the plumbing out of order, it matters not; Mrs.

Jones and Mrs. Robinson cannot endure it. Has this habit of a husband ever been cited as "extreme cruelty" in divorce proceedings?

Father of Whist. The modern game was evolved by Edmond Hoyle, who died 150 years ago. He wrote a treatise on what which ran into five editions in a year, and achieved such fame as a coach that whist players that Byron once exclaimed: "Troy owes to Homer what whist owes to Hoyle."

DEAN OF COLLEGE COACHES IS TITLE OF KEENE FITZPATRICK OF PRINCETON

"Dean of American College Coaches." That is the title that truthfully belongs to Keene Fitzpatrick of Princeton.

Entering upon his thirtieth year as trainer and coach of college athletes, the dignified popular "dean," who first saw the light of day nearly fifty years ago in Natick—reorganized as the home of the country's best trainers—takes up his duties at Princeton this week.

Fitzpatrick is Loved.

Princeton has learned to love Fitzpatrick just as much as it does the members of the famous Poe family. Sam White and others who have brought glory to the Janglestown institution. He has built up the athletic department, just as he had done at Michigan, where he was the big man of the middle West before going to Princeton.

Michigan also had learned to respect Fitzpatrick. His word was always law, writes John J. Huthman in Boston Globe.

Keene always has been of quiet disposition, preferring to let his deeds speak for him. They have, and when classes in graduating at Princeton honored him as an honorary member of their classes, it speaks volumes of the esteem and respect they have toward him down in New Jersey.

With the late Mike Murphy, "Pooch" Donovan of Harvard, "Uper" Donovan, the first American sprinter to run 100 yards in 9.35 seconds; Johnny Mack of Yale, "Slim" Peer and others, he was one of the noted group of sprinters who trained at Sunnyside Park, Natick, for the professional foot races in the days before amateur athletics was established.

Organized Famous Teams. He was one of the first to organize the famous hose, hook and ladder teams, when mingling of this kind was so popular and the rivalry between Massachusetts towns was keen.

It was at Yale that Fitzpatrick made his start as a trainer in 1880 and 1891. Contrary to the general impression, Fitz was alone in handling the condition of the football players and coaching the track men.

YANKS FINISH THIRD

George Mogridge had the distinction of bringing home the Yanks in third place this season. With a slice of the world series medal at stake Mogridge never worked harder to defeat Connie Mack's infield in the final fling of the year. Mogridge got two hits, one a triple that decided the issue and kept the Athletics back in the rack. The Yanks finished one game ahead of the Tigers and got about $300 each for landing in third place.

SCRAPPING MANAGER STILL IN BASEBALL

Both Leagues Boast of Leaders Handy With Their Fists.

Former Star Player Laments Fact That Game Is Becoming Hand-shaking Institution—Diamond Battles Not Numerous.

Joss Bartlett, former big league star batsman, recently lamented the fact that baseball was becoming a hand-shaking institution. There is not enough fight in the modern game of baseball to suit the aggressive Joss. Perhaps battles on the diamond are not as numerous as they once were, but it cannot be said that the present condition which Bartlett mourns has been brought about entirely by the present crop of managers, for in the big leagues today nearly all of the players are known quantities as far as scrapping goes.

In the American league there are two premier performers with their nicks in Ed Barrows of the Red Sox and "Kil" Gleason of the Chicago White Sox. And Jimmy Burke of the Browns and Clarke Griffith of the Senators cannot be considered shrinking violets.

The National league, however, is much better equipped in the matter of fighting leaders in Hugo Bezdek of the Pirates, John McGraw of the Giants, Branch Rickey of the Cardinals, Fred Mitchell of the Cubs and George Stallings of the Braves. Any of this crowd will battle, and if managers can be credited, any of them can, in a pinch, go to the mat with an obstreperous player.

A FREAK PLAY

There have been many freak plays this season at the Polo ground, but one that occurred in the final game of the season between the Giants and Pirates was one for the book. It happened in the seventh inning. Schmidt, the Pittsburgh catcher, was at bat. He hit a grounder sharply at Zimmerman. Holmbe deided the ball cleanly, but noticed that Schmidt did not run to first. Instead, the visiting backstop was ripping his bat on the ground to see if it had been broken by the blow. So Zim tossed the ball to Fletcher. Fletcher relayed it to Frisch and Frisch passed it to Chase, relaying Schmidt at first base. Schmidt's bat had been fractured at the handle.

GIVE VARDON CREDIT FOR PECULIAR GRIP

Supposition Is Incorrect, According to Harold Hilton.

John Ernest Laddley Held All of His Clubs by Aid of Overlapping Fingers Long Before Vardon Became Prominent.

While a majority of the star golfers in this country use what is known as the overlapping grip, there are few who know the origin of this method. If the average golfs devotee were asked who was the pioneer of this style, he would probably reply without hesitation, "Harry Vardon, of course." But, according to Harold H. Hilton, former British amateur champion, this is incorrect.

Many years before Vardon was taking part in championship golf a certain amateur, John Ernest Laddley, was playing better than any other in Scotland and at the same time much more on a par with the best professional talent in either Scotland or England, says Hilton. Laddley was holding the grip of all his clubs by the aid of overlapping the fingers of the right hand over the forefinger and thumb of the left hand, and his success was so great that one would have naturally assumed that he would have many imitators.

No doubt in his own circle at Musselburgh and at North Berwick there was a certain circle of admirers who followed him, but as none of them made any marked success it became somewhat recognized that Laddley's unique methods were simply the eccentricity of golf genius, and were not safe for the ordinary man to imitate.

Next to adopt the overlapping grip among the famous players was J. H. Taylor. He is a slightly younger man than Vardon, and while it would not be fair to assume that he took to the method of grip before Vardon, he appeared in first class golf before the latter did, so he must be viewed in the light of being the second apostle of the grip which is so prevalent in present-day golf.

A little later Vardon came on the scene, utilizing a similar grip to that of Laddley and Taylor, and it was only then that the critics began thoroughly to realize that there must be something in this method of method of gripping the club. Soon there became quite a craze for overlapping the fingers, and the comparatively new form of hold was termed the "Vardon" grip, by which it is referred to to this day. By that name it will probably always be known.

ROW OVER BINGHAMTON CLUB

Owner Johnson Paid Off Players at Close of Season and Made Them Free Agents.

George F. Johnson, backer of the Binghamton club, paid off his players at the close of the season and made them all free agents. There is likely to be some protest at this action, however, as some of the international immigrants hold the players go with the franchise, which Binghamton has surrendered.

CAT WOULD CATCH BURGLAR SUSPECT

"Alciabades" Is Precocious Young Feline of Record and Adventure.

Oakland, Cal.—"Alciabades" caught a burglar and also "Alciabades" isn't a policeman.

"Alciabades" is a precocious young black cat, the property of Clarence Wood Soames, 1324 Harrison street, and a cat of record and adventure. His latest bid for fame has just been made.

Soames had rented to a friend a room on the second floor of his house, neglecting to advise "Alciabades" of the fact. In line with his usual custom, the cat occupied the front porch on the night, the new roomer reached the house, shortly after two o'clock in the morning.

"Alciabades" was perturbed by the arrival of the stranger, and his suspicions were aroused. Something was wrong and the cat took immediate action. Climbing to the top of the fence immediately under the room occupied by Soames, he set up a prolonged howl until his owner, scenting trouble, arose and let the disturber in the front door.

Dashing upstairs and squatting before the door of the new roomer, "Alciabades" continued his vocal exertions with redoubled energy. Finally realizing what was troubling the mind of the feline, Soames explained the situation to the satisfaction of the feline, whereupon "Alciabades" subsided, returned to the front porch and quiet was restored.

During the daytime "Alciabades" has for his playmate a young bantam rooster with which he shares his meals.

Child's Life Saved by Falling Window

Savannah, Ga.—Little Katherine Jungstetter owes her life to the fact that a window sash fell on her and held her suspended from a third story window through which she had fallen.

The child is three years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Jungstetter. She was playing near a third-story window when she fell through the screen. The accident lasted the heavy sash, which caught her when her body was more than half out of the window. She was held in this perilous position until her cries brought assistance.

IS SCARED BY WOODEN LEG

Sound of Its Fall Made Thief in Oregon Diagnose Lout and Then Beat It Quickly.

Medford, Ore.—A thief entered a home in this city. He had ransacked several rooms, pocketed a gold watch and a bunch of jewels belonging to a lady occupant of one, so a valuable pipe from a male roomer, pulled on a pair of new shoes belonging to another, grabbed a pair of trousers and started for the door. Just then a wooden leg dropped from the pantaloons.

It struck the unprepared floor with a loud thud that frightened burglar emptied his pockets of the loot he had stolen and with a yell dashed from the premises.

It is the opinion of the owner of the house, T. M. Thompson, that he is running yet.

Kills Blind Son.

Namur, Can.—Louis Forget, 90 years old, a farmer of Namur, has been arrested on a charge of having pushed his son, Ambrose Forget, 35 years old, into the Little Lange river. The son, who had been blind from infancy, was drowned last October, but it was not until a few days ago that the body was recovered. Forget is alleged to have confessed that, owing to financial conditions and the helplessness of his son, he had decided to do away with him.

Seeing Is Believing.

WILL EXTEND RED CROSS DRIVE THREE MORE DAYS

In order to complete the drive for twenty-five hundred members in the southern half of Wood County, Red Cross officials announced Tuesday, to the workers that the drive would be continued three more days. Certain districts of this territory have not been solicited for membership as yet and it will require more than the allotted time to finish the campaign. The closing date which has been set is November 14th.

A meeting of the officials of the drive held Tuesday revealed the fact that there were about eleven hundred members included up until that time. Two wards in this city had not been covered. The Nekosasa-Edwards mills had not been reported in and the village of Nekosasa had not made their report. Volunteer workers from the Wood County Normal will assist in taking care of the remainder of the city.

Present indications are that the membership when completely turned in will run close to two thousand members, probably falling short by a few hundred of the mark which was set as the goal. The people of the city responded very well, the workers state, but in many cases where formerly entire families belonged to the Red Cross only one or two joined this year. The interest shown by the both the people carrying on the campaign and the people solicited indicates that there will be no trouble in retaining the organization as a peace time body.

CONVICT NEKOOSA GUARD FOR POINTING REVOLVER

Charles Ford, head guard at the Nekosasa-Edwards plant, was found guilty pointing a revolver at Charles Champey on September 18th, during the strike troubles which occurred at Nekosasa during that month. A jury composed of Robt. Rowland, A. W. Lambert, Andrew Schill, A. D. Sutor, Eugene Miller and Edw. Smith listened to the case and after a few minutes deliberation brought in a verdict of guilty.

The case grew out of an argument between Ford and members of the Union at Nekosasa. It seemed from the testimony that Ford, in company with some mill workers, went by the pickets at Nekosasa, who shouted "scab" at them. Ford, they stated, ran by the place where the incident occurred a distance of fifty or sixty feet, stopped the car and came back to where the men were congregated. They stated that he warned them that they had better stop the shouting at him or there would be trouble. In an argument that followed between Ford and Champey Ford struck Champey in the face, Champey picking up a brick and throwing it at Ford. It is then alleged, pulled a gun from his pocket and threatened the crowd of strikers who he stated had seized clubs and chairs and started for him. Officer Haril arrested Ford, the case having been postponed until Monday of this week.

Judge Pomainville, before whom the case was tried, made it $1 and costs, amounting to $39.51, which Ford agreed to pay.

MARIE GROSKOPF MARRIED RACINE MAN ON SATURDAY

Miss Marie Groskopf of this city and Mr. Raymond Kreuser, formerly of Racine but who now resides at Biron, were married last Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, at St. Peter & Paul church, Rev. Wm. Reding officiating.

They were attended by Miss Frances Groskopf, as bridesmaid, while Ervin Kreuser was the groomsmen. The bride made a very attractive appearance in a plum colored velvet dress with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. The bridesmaid was very prettily gowned in Alice blue silk with hat to match carrying a bouquet of Opheila roses. After the ceremony the bride and groom were guests at the home of the bride's parents on Wisconsin street, where a delightful wedding breakfast was served to the young couple and a number of their friends. The home had been beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and other cut flowers and ferns, making it very attractive. Mr. and Mrs. Kreuser left shortly after the breakfast for Milwaukee, Chicago where they will spend about a week, returning to this city to make their home.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Groskopf of this city and is very well and favorably known here. She has been employed in different business places about the city in recent years and has made a host of friends among the young people of Grand Rapids. The groom is a former resident of Racine, having come to this locality about a year and a half ago, being employed at the Biron mill. During his life here Mr. Kreuser has made many friends and proved himself to be an able and industrious young man. The newlyweds will make their home at 743 Wisconsin street upon their return to this city, and will be at home to their friends there after November 15th. They have the best wishes of the Tribune and a host of other friends in this city.

WOMEN WILL URGED BOARD TO HAVE CO. DEMONSTRATOR

The Federated Women's Clubs of this city, working in conjunction with the requests of many women throughout the different communities in Wood County, will explain the proposition of the County Food Demonstrator to the members of the County Board at their annual Fall meeting this year. Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, who has headed the Woman's Land Army in Wisconsin, will probably be here from Madison to address the members of the board on the matter and urge establishing such an office in this county.

The new office is a continuance of this movement which was carried on during the war by Miss Carroll, who resigned last spring to take up work at the University. The demonstrator not only helps the farmers wives in lightening their housework, but explains and demonstrates how clothes can be made over advantageously, how the cooking can be made more attractive and what foods are the most nutritious, and numerous other things that only scientific training can otherwise be conveyed to an individual.

The university, it is stated by the women here, are so enthusiastic about the new movement that they are offering to pay one-half of the expense of the office for the first year in the first few counties who employ a demonstrator. They describe the success of a demonstrator in Marathon county, who organized more than twenty farmers wives clubs in that county during her first year's work and who the county board unanimously voted to retain.

HEAVY EXPRESS PACKAGES MUST TRAVEL IN BOXES

W. S. Fishbach, local express agent, has received a communication from headquarters stating that all shipments of express weighing more than twenty-five pounds must hereafter be packed in wooden containers or cartons of fibre-board, pulp board or corrugated strawboard material. The new law goes into effect December 10th and after that date the local express company can accept no packages of more than twenty-five pounds weight that do not comply with the new regulations.

The new express regulations follow very closely the freight shipping regulations, Mr. Fishbach states, and will be a benefit to the shippers as well as to the company. During the past few years the express shipments have become so heavy that it has been necessary to pack express cars completely full of packages of express. Stacked in this way shipments not properly properly protected with a box of some kind are often ruined, or in many cases badly battered.

As wooden containers have become comparatively scarce and equally expensive, the new express law will probably be a material aid to the Aldawagm Paper Products Company of this city, manufacturers of paper shipping cartons.

GUNSHOT WOUND FATAL TO YOUNG RIB LAKE FARMER

The Marshfield Herald tells the following account of an accident which occurred at Rib Lake:

Herman Beche, aged 23, a farmer boy residing eight miles southeast of Rib Lake, suffering from an accidental gunshot wound, died Tuesday night on a Soo line passenger while enroute to St. Joseph's Hospital, this city. The accident occurred Tuesday noon. He was working in the woods with his brother Fred. When the noon hour arrived they started for home. Herman in advance carrying a 30 calibre automatic rifle, which he had taken to the woods with him that morning. In climbing over a pile of logs he slipped and fell and the gun was discharged. The bullet passed through the thigh of the right leg and downward into the calf of the leg making an ugly wound. His brother Fred tried to carry him out of the woods but had to give up and go for assistance. He was hurried to this city on the first train but the shock and loss of blood caused the ending of his life shortly after the train left Spencer.

John Jezewski, a resident of Stockton, Portage county, died last Tuesday twenty minutes after being hit with a mail sack thrown from a Soo line limited. Mr. Jezewski was walking along the track when the accident occurred. The train, a limited, was traveling at a high rate of speed when the sack was thrown from a mail car, striking the man in the chest. Internal injuries resulted causing his death.
